Republican Policy Hit By Congressman Steagall

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—Speaking on "panics and politics" at the last meeting of the Women's National Democratic club here, Representative Henry B. Steagall, of the third Alabama district, a member of the powerful banking and currency committee, placed the blame for existing economic conditions in the United States on "the unwholesome policy of the republican party through which the wealth of the country has drifted into the hands of a few men."

The Alabama congressman assailed the republican tariff policy and the privileged interests, lauded the federal farm board for recommending curtailment of crops and criticized President Hoover for "failing to recognize his duty of leadership." Several hundred distinguished women, including the wives of many senators and congressmen, heard his speech.

Senators Administration After discussing recent stock market developments and charging the republican party with responsibility for the economic situation, Mr. Steagall declared the present administration "ought to be ashamed of its failure to come to the aid of agriculture, as promised in the campaign."

"Farm values," he said, "are shrinking. Five million farmers have left the farms in the last five years. Of the 25,000,000 homes in the country, less than 5,000,000 are owned by their owners. Conditions cannot be described as healthy when homes, farms, furniture, automobiles, radio sets and even public roads are bought on the installment plan."

Mr. Steagall said that of the 1,500 bank failures during the past three years, three-fourths were in agricultural sections, and that of the 500 failures in 1929, not a single one occurred in New England, where legislative favors have given the people of that section an unfair share of the returns of labor.

Assault Tariff Bill "Congress was called into special session," he continued, "to meet with the agricultural situation, under the promise made to Senator Borah, but instead the republicans wrote a tariff bill that was dictated by the fattened favorites of protection. This bill passed the house without a word of protest from the White House or any of the president's spokesmen on the floor of the house."

"In the senate the bill has been denounced by practically the solid democratic membership and by the progressive republicans, who are sympathetic with the effort to relieve agriculture. During all the session the president has failed to recognize his duty of leadership and all factions in the controversy claim to be standing by the president. All of the speakers, no matter how divergent their views, claim to voice the views of the White House."

"Only two utterances have come from Mr. Hoover, and their meaning is not open to dispute. One of his declarations was in opposition to the export debenture plan, and the other was in opposition to repeal of the provision which gives the president the power to fix the tariff rates. These are the only definite messages congress has had from the president during the tariff controversy and both of them are obstructive, notwithstanding the fact that constructive leadership was never so sorely needed."

Curtailment Plan Rapped The congressman declared that the federal farm board's suggestion for a 20 per cent curtailment of crops this year means that it "wants the people to work less and produce less, in face of the fact that there are hungry millions throughout the world in dire need of food and clothing."

Chief Of Engineers Deems Flood Survey Advisable

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—Pursuant to the adoption of an amendment proposed by Senator Duffell, of Florida, to a bill passed by the House May 21, 1928, authorizing preliminary examinations to be made of sundry streams with a view of flood control, the Secretary of War recently transmitted to the Speaker of the House of Representatives a report from the Chief of Engineers on the preliminary examination of Choctawhatchee River and its tributaries in Florida and Alabama, the concluding paragraph of which reads: "After due consideration of the above-mentioned reports, I concur in the recommendation of the Board of Engineers for Rivers and Harbors. From the information now available, it appears probable that the benefits resulting from flood protection in the valley of the Choctawhatchee River would be entirely local. Federal participation is justified, however, to the extent of bearing the cost of a survey. I, therefore, report that a survey of the Choctawhatchee River, Florida and Alabama, is deemed advisable, with a view to the control of floods, at an estimated cost of $14,000."

Senator Fletcher pointed out that last spring an unusual flood occurred which resulted in damage to Alabama and Florida estimated at $7,411,000, and stated that the appropriation recommended by the Chief of Engineers to cover cost of a survey of the river and its tributaries with a view to the control of floods, will surely be provided in the proper bill during this session of Congress.

"It is my sincere hope," Senator Fletcher concluded, "that they will result eventually in controlling the waters of Choctawhatchee River and its tributaries and thereby prevent the appalling loss of lives and damage to property in the territory from about Elba and Newton, Alabama to Choctawhatchee Bay in Florida."

To World War Veterans And Their Dependents

All World War Veterans who feel that they are now suffering with disabilities caused by their service should file claim for disability compensation. The World War Veterans Act provides that all claims for disability compensation must be filed within five years from date of discharge, but for a good reason the director of the U. S. Veterans' Bureau may extend that time another five years. April 6, 1930, is the expiration date and any Veteran who does not file a claim for disability compensation prior to April 6, 1930, will be denied the right to file a claim. Also all Veterans who have filed a claim for compensation who have not submitted to the Veterans' Bureau all evidence possible to procure, should secure such evidence and submit to the Bureau before April 6, 1930, as the law also provides that this evidence must be filed with the Veterans' Bureau prior to April 6, 1930. This article does not refer to Veterans who have established their claims and who are now drawing compensation, but is intended to bear information to Veterans who have never filed a claim and who have not established their claims to the Veterans' Bureau.

All dependents of deceased World War Veterans should also file their claims for death compensation, otherwise known as dependency compensation, before April 6, 1930, as the law provides that their claims must be filed prior to that time. Fathers and mothers who are now dependent or have been dependent since the date of death of their son who have not applied for dependency compensation should by all means file their claims. Widows of deceased World War Veterans who have not filed claim for dependency compensation should also file their claims prior to April 6, 1930. This article does not refer to fathers, mothers and widows of deceased World War Veterans who have filed their claims and who are now drawing dependency compensation.

All World War Veterans and dependents of deceased World War Veterans who are in doubt as to their rights to file claim and as to the proper procedure to take should get in touch with the local Post of the American Legion in their community or should write to the Sub-office of the U. S. Veterans' Bureau at Montgomery, Alabama.

Chevrolet Prepares For Record Breaking Business

Because of the popular nationwide reception of the new Chevrolet at lower prices, the Chevrolet Motor Company is preparing for a volume of business in 1930 that promises to break all records of the company. Confidence over the outlook for a banner Chevrolet year is widespread in the factory dealers organization.

This is the statement of Lamar Rainer, local Chevrolet dealer, who has just returned from Birmingham where he attended the mammoth Chevrolet sales meeting and banquet.

"Under the direction of H. J. Klingler, Vice President and General Sales Manager of the Chevrolet Motor Company, the meeting embraced the most graphic and comprehensive sales presentation ever attempted by an automobile manufacturer," Mr. Rainer said.

"The advance merchandising methods which the factory is suggesting to its dealer organization were depicted in the form of playlets, showing the proper procedure to be followed in the successful operation of a retail automobile business."

In connection with the convention the 100 Car Club members of the Birmingham Zone, which embraces the retail salesmen who sold 100 or more Chevrolets in 1929, held their annual meeting and installed officers for the year.
